

Names Dr. Philip P. Gerbino Chair and Elects Dr. John M. Daly to Board of Directors

April 16, 2009 08:30 AM Eastern Daylight Time

PHILADELPHIA--(BUSINESS WIRE)--BioAdvance, the Biotechnology Greenhouse Corporation of Southeastern Pennsylvania, today announced that Philip P. Gerbino, PharmD., has been elected as Chair of the organization's Board of Directors effective April 2009. BioAdvance also announced that John M. Daly, M.D., has joined the organization's Board of Directors.

"I look forward to the opportunities ahead as BioAdvance expands on its successes of investing in and growing our region's next-generation of leading biosciences companies, as well as in advancing the region's prominence as a hub for life science discovery and entrepreneurship"

"We are honored to have Dr. Gerbino serve as Chair of the Board of Directors as he is nationally recognized for his professional accomplishments, and he is a tremendous advocate for the Greater Philadelphia region's scientific strengths. He will be a strong voice for BioAdvance's activities and a driving force for our organization's future goals," said Barbara S. Schilberg, managing director and CEO of BioAdvance.

As President of University of the Sciences in Philadelphia for the past 14 years, Dr. Gerbino has helped guide the growth of the 188-year-old institution from its roots as Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science (PCPS) into the five colleges that now comprise the University. Dr. Gerbino is a Fellow of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, the American Pharmacists Association (APhA), Academy of Pharmacy Practice and Management, and the American Society of Consultant Pharmacists (ASCP). He was the 2006 recipient of the Phi Lambda Sigma-Procter & Gamble National Leadership Award.

"I look forward to the opportunities ahead as BioAdvance expands on its successes of investing in and growing our region's next-generation of leading biosciences companies, as well as in advancing the region's prominence as a hub for life science discovery and entrepreneurship," said Dr. Gerbino, who has served on BioAdvance's Board of Director's for the past six years. "BioAdvance has successfully helped its portfolio companies attract nearly $1 billion in additional capital to the region, built bridges between academic institutions and businesses through initiatives such as the Greater Philadelphia Bioinformatics Alliance and the Greater Philadelphia Life Sciences Guide, and led two Milken Institute studies on the impact of biosciences on our region. This dedication and leadership fulfills our covenant which fosters commercialization and regional economic development."

Dr. Gerbino continues to serve on editorial and advisory boards of pharmacy, medical, and healthcare publications, and is a consultant on strategic planning, marketing, and new business development to the pharmaceutical and healthcare industries. He has or continues to serve on boards of private and public healthcare companies, and regional professional and civic organizations, including the University City Science Center, the University City Keystone Innovation Zone, Quaker BioVentures, and Pennsylvania Bio.

An accomplished professional chairman and facilitator, Dr. Gerbino has published and lectured extensively. He served as President of APhA in 1990, and as a civilian pharmacy consultant to the Air Force Surgeon General. Prior to being named President at University of the Sciences, he served as Dean of the School of Pharmacy and Vice President of Academic Affairs. He also retains the title of "Linwood F. Tice Professor" at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. Dr. Gerbino earned his B.S. in Pharmacy and his PharmD. from PCPS where he has worked for more than 30 years as an educator and administrator.

John M. Daly, MD, FACS, FRCPS (Hon. Glasg.), has also joined BioAdvance as a board member. "Dr. Daly is a terrific addition to the BioAdvance Board of Directors," said Ms. Schilberg. "Since he joined Temple University School of Medicine as Dean in 2002, the institution has increased its funding from NIH and has expanded its research focus in important disease areas such as obesity, virology and oncology, as well as clinical translational research. We look forward to increased opportunities to work with Temple in advancing innovative new biomedical products."

An internationally renowned oncologic surgeon, author, researcher and academician, Dr. Daly became Dean of Temple University School of Medicine in 2002. Prior to joining Temple, he was the Lewis Atterbury Stimson Professor and Chair of the Department of Surgery at the Weill Medical College of Cornell University and New York Presbyterian Hospital's Surgeon-in-Chief. Before that, he was the Jonathan E. Rhoads Professor of Surgery at the University of Pennsylvania and Chief of the Division of Surgical Oncology at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania.

A prolific researcher and author, Dr. Daly has 368 publications to his credit, including dozens of book chapters and several books. He is past editor and/or current editorial board member of Cancer, Surgery, and a dozen other leading journals. He has been nearly continuously funded by and has served as principal investigator on numerous research grants from the National Institutes of Health.

An expert in clinical nutrition and parenteral hyperalimentation, Dr. Daly is a past president of the American Society for Parenteral and Enteral Nutrition, the Society of Surgical Oncology (2002-2003); the New York Surgical Society (1998-1999); and the Philadelphia Chapter of the American Cancer Society (1992-1993). Moreover, he has served on governance boards and in leadership capacities for the American Board of Colon and Rectal Surgery, the American Board of Surgery, the American College of Surgeons, the American Surgical Association, the Association for Academic Surgery, the Association of American Medical Colleges and a dozen other professional associations. His areas of expertise include physician competency and liability, credentialing and board certification, surgical education and research and public health policy and long-range planning, and technology assessment.

"I am very pleased to serve as a member of the BioAdvance Board of Directors," said Dr. Daly. Dr. Daly has received numerous honors and awards for teaching, research and practice, including Sam E. Roberts Nutrition Foundation Medal of the University of Kansas (1981) and the Elliot Hochstein Medical Student Teaching Award of Cornell University (1995). Over the years, he has appeared in some two dozen "best" lists (Best Doctors in Philadelphia, Best Doctors in America, Best Doctors in New York, Top Cancer Doctors in New York City, Best Doctors in New York, The 318 Top Cancer Specialists for Women, etc.).
